BELASCO'S

THE WOMAN

The Famous BELASCO Production Made into a Novel

By Albert Payson Terhune

From the Play by WILLIAM C. de MILLE

This thrilling play, in which is treated the problem of a woman's past as regarded by her husband, has been rewritten by ALBERT PAYSON TERHUNE, and appears in all its strength as a novel under the same title. The characters have lost none of their force in this new form, they stand out from the pages as life-like personalities that hold us spellbound. Those familiar with the play will be astonished at the action the author has put into the novel and the reality of its spirit.

A Story
Calculated to Sell
Fast, Often and Long

The Epic of Ebenezer

By FLORENCE TINSLEY COX

A big part of the reading world does enjoy a lifelike story about a live, lovable, human kind of dog. Ebenezer, who trotted into Hillcrest looking for a master; who, after many tribulations, found old Mr. Green; who got his master into endless trouble, but none so great as to disturb one whit of that old gentleman's loving trust in him; and who, at last, paid nobly the debt of gratitude he owed; this Ebenezer is that rarest of canines, a real dog in fiction. And his master is the salt of the earth.

The story of these two and their Christmas celebration is charmingly spontaneous, wholesome and sweet. A better little book to carry a message of love and good-will would be hard to find.

What One Great Newspaper Says About "Azalea"

From the Chicago Record-Herald

"THERE is an emotional quality in Mrs. Peattie's 'Azalea' that shows the author's increasing mastery of her art. Good stories for girls do not grow on every blackberry bush, but 'Azalea' is a book that any girl and any mother will pronounce good. Even an old and hardened reviewer who never had the luck to be a little girl can testify to its interest. There are two live boys in the book, and they have adventures, too, but nothing can make 'Azalea' a boys' book, for it is essentially feminine in all its best passages.

"Azalea is a little girl who comes to the mountain home of Pa and Ma McBirney in the Blue Ridge country with a traveling circus. Her own mother lies dead in one of the circus wagons. The story tells how gentle Mrs. McBirney mothered the orphan and how Pa and Jim and the neighbors connived while she spirited the girl away from the brutal circus manager, kept her safe in a mountain cave till he had gone away. She was very happy in the McBirney cabin until one day she was kidnapped, and eccentric old Haystack Thompson shouldered his rifle and set out to rescue her.

"There is a good deal more to the plot, including the pathetic story of Azalea's mother, and it ends with a situation in which Azalea has to choose between wealthy friends and the homespun love of the McBirneys; but the fineness of the story lies not in its plot, but in the genuineness of the characters and the bracing atmosphere of love and service that pervades it. Mrs. Peattie knows the hearts of these simple mountaineers and makes them live in her pages. She knows the heart of motherhood and of girlhood, and so we have Ma McBirney and Azalea, with the touching need of each for the other. The book is good for girls of almost any age."

"The clear-cut figures that make up the personnel of the book are drawn with a singular dramatic insight and force and sympathy. They have the qualities that are always and everywhere attractive."

—Buffalo Evening News.

"It contains good characters and excellent descriptions of the Blue Ridge country."

—San Francisco Chronicle.

"The story goes on so simply and yet so absorbingly that you think it is real life."

—Chicago Tribune.

"Mrs. Peattie has given a very sweet picture of the home life of a mountain family."

—Omaha World-Herald.

"A story written primarily for young people, its simplicity of style and entertaining plot commend it to the notice of older people also."

—Syracuse Herald.

WYNDHAM MARTYN*Author of "THE MAN OUTSIDE"*

RATHER than appeal to his elder brother for funds, Richard Chester, a young New Yorker of good family and social position, but practically bankrupt, decides to visit the home of a money lender and demand the return of a sum of money due him. By mistake Chester enters the apartments of Nora Ellis, who, according to her grandfather's will, must marry before midnight or forfeit $250,000. Not wishing to sacrifice this fortune, the girl forces Chester to marry her, believing that she can readily divorce him. Rather than submit to an arrest on the charge of attempted burglary, Chester agrees to the ceremony and shortly after departs.

The outcome of this strange situation will enlist the reader's absorbed interest as he follows the hero's eventful career to the end of Mr. Martyn's unusual romance.

Jack —: One of Us

By GILBERT FRANKAU*12mo.Net $1.20*

- ¶ One of the smartest conceits of half a century. A novel in verse; an epic of modern society; a masterly parody in the Byronic manner.
- ¶ Gilbert Frankau is the son of Frank Danby, already well known to readers of recent fiction.
- ¶ If originality, skill and daring constitute a literary sensation, then Mr. Frankau's novel in verse has achieved all that and more, for the book is not merely readable but eminently lively and entertaining. Every page is instinct with genius, realistic word painting, kindly cynicism or genuine sentiment as the author skims the surface of fashionable life with agreeable humor and searching cleverness.
- ¶ JACK —: ONE OF US will set everybody talking. It is the most brilliant word picture, that has ever been painted, of the frantic luxury and insane extravagance of modern society. It is a satire—a great satire, astonishingly splendid in its audacity—of brisk, tripping stanzas, of lively description and redolent with the fun of youth and high spirits.

A Health Unto His Majesty

- ¶ It is a fascinating story of the merry shifts, the ingenious expedients of gallantry and danger faced by the romantic exile Charles II with his starved and loyal court.
- ¶ The escapades, fights, spies, adventures follow in rapid succession, sustaining the pace and interest as the story unfolds. The magic of the past reflects from every page as the fascination and charm of the period are renewed in the masterly art of the author.

THE PARCELS POST LAW AND ITS RELATION TO THE BOOK TRADE.

THE parcels post has come—and has come to stay. We print in full, from the official text of the law as approved by the President, those sections of the Postal Appropriation Act which cover the parcels post plan. It is essentially Senator Bourne's scheme, and he is largely entitled to the credit of fighting it through. Unfortunately, as a rider to an appropriation bill, covering a question on which the House disagreed with the Senate and with itself, since it reversed its own action by advancing a substitute plan in the rush of the last hours of the session, and finally accepted by the House conferees in the Senate form, the provision is very imperfect and confusing, in some respects incompatible with other parts of the bill and with present postal arrangements, and is altogether an example of "how not to do it" in legislation. But it accomplishes, however imperfectly, a great step forward, and the friends of postal progress, however disappointed in the method, should be glad of the result.

The zone system adopted is based not on broad lines, but on squares of half a degree of longitude and of latitude, each of which squares, approximately thirty miles north and south, and something less than that east and west, is a center for an approximated system of radial distances indicating eight zones. As the United States, aside from Alaska, covers, on the average, fifty degrees of longitude and twenty degrees of latitude, there will be approximately 4000 such squares and 30,000 different zones. This complication, as thus stated, presents an evident absurdity, and the situation is further complicated by the indefinite nature of the radial distance. But, as a matter of fact, the scheme will work better practically than this theoretical difficulty indicates, and as the rates are closely graded, there will be little reason for complaint by the public, even though the local postmaster or the sender makes a mistake of one zone. The fact that all rural routes and all city deliveries are included within the initial zone, at the minimum rate, is of great significance, and will in the cities work an extraordinary change in the method of local deliveries from stores.

The haste with which the bill was finally put through has led to a serious incongruity, to which the attention both of the Senate and House authorities had been more than once called in the earlier stages. The original scheme was modified to permit the mailing of one, two, three or four ounces at one cent an ounce, the present rate; but under the phraseology of the law, the full pound rate must be paid on five ounces, the two-pound rate on seventeen ounces, and so on. This becomes a serious burden in the farther zones, and in some cases actually increases the present rate, e. g., seventeen ounces from New York to San Francisco will cost twenty-four cents instead of the present rate of seventeen cents.

A second serious mistake, which seems deliberate, is the confining of the parcels post to fourth-class matter, to the exclusion of third-class or printed matter. This mistake was again and again called to the attention of Senator Bourne and the House Chairman Moon, editorially, by private letters from several quarters, and officially by the American Library Association committee. Failure to include books, although farm and other factory products were specifically included in the parcels post, works a serious disadvantage to publishers, booksellers and libraries within city deliveries, rural routes and the initial zone generally, as also within the second, third and fourth zones, and in weights of over two pounds in the fifth zone, though on smaller packages in the fifth zone, as well as in the sixth, seventh and eighth zones, that is, for a distance of 900 miles or over, books have an advantage in the eight-cents-per-pound rate. The omission works especially to the disadvantage of the local bookstore and the rural library.

It is possible, though not probable, that the extraordinary power given to the Postmaster-General, in conjunction with the Interstate Commerce Commission, to change the classification, rates, etc., after experience has proved the need of changes, may enable the Post Office Department to do the sensible thing in this particular. "Subject to the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission, after investigation," he is authorized "to reform, from time to time, such classification,* weight limit, zone or zones or conditions, or either, in order to promote the service to the public" or to insure the receipt of adequate revenue.

Mr. Hitchcock is on record as being an advocate of parcels post. His published comments give ground for belief that he will be liberal in his interpretation of the provisions of the present law. In a preliminary circular of information issued by the Post Office Department, he says: "The law admits to the mails practically all kinds of merchandise that can be transported safely." Similarly, Senator Bourne says, in an "official summary" of it: "Any article is mailable not over eleven pounds in weight," etc. Inasmuch as the law specifically includes "farm and factory products," a ruling that would admit to the benefit of the parcels post every kind of a manufactured product except a book would be difficult to justify. For economic and educational reasons, printed matter should, as a matter of fact, receive, as it always has received, a rate, if anything, more favorable than that accorded miscellaneous matter. Surely the postal handicap now suffered by book publishers and book dealers as against periodical publishers is great enough not to further increase and emphasize it.

The law authorizes the Postmaster-General to provide for the insurance of postal parcels and for a C. O. D. system similar to that of the express companies. It is to be hoped that such improvements may be worked out on broad and practical lines. The new scheme must thoroughly revolutionize the method and rates of the express companies, whose unwise and unpopular administration of their own services has been largely responsible for the public opinion which has brought about the parcels post; but we may hope that the rivalry between the Post Office and the express companies will work to the advantage of the public, and that there will be no attempt to make the parcels post a postal monopoly.

Upon the Postmaster-General has been put the enormous burden of organizing within four months, in all parts of the country, an enormous business, requiring the greatest forethought and the highest executive skill; and when the new year comes, the public must be prepared to be patient with any faults of administration and to charge Congress, rather than the Postmaster-General, with immediate imperfections in the service. In such cities as New York and Chicago, with postal facilities already inadequate, the burden will be exceptionally great.

The bill will have the effect of giving houses in the center of the country an advantage over those near the ocean, i. e., Chicago will have an advantage over New York and San Francisco, and St. Louis will have an advantage over Chicago in the rates to certain points. But, on the whole, these disadvantages will be more than compensated for by the fact that at last a parcels post is an accomplished fact. It will be for Congress, at the next session, to cure the defects in the present bill. As the whole plan is part of an appropriation bill, it is necessary, we believe, that it should be reenacted each year, and this defect Congress also should remedy by making the parcels post the subject of a separate and permanent law.

THE parcels post was fought bitterly by representatives of the small country retailers, and, however much of their opposition was inspired by large and consistently inimical interests, there exists, without doubt, a widespread belief that the parcels post will injure small-store business. So far, the bookseller has expressed little anxiety on this score. Certainly, the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY does not for a moment believe that this would be the effect of the parcels post. There will be readjustment; but cheap transportation and wide distribution is in line with all modern progress. No dealer who adapted himself to the changed order—as he easily could—would lose by it. The PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY believes in the bookstore, in the small bookstore. It believes in the increase of the bookstore's proportion of mail-order book business to a maximum. It believes the parcels post, by enabling the small dealer to get orders quickly and cheaply, would really play into his hands. To keep up an adequate stock of books is to impose a financial load upon the bookseller comparable with that of few other small retailers in magnitude, for a book is an individual thing, and substitution is rarely possible. But given an easy ordering method for "pick-ups" on the one hand, and a cheap delivery method on the other, and the retailer is strengthened, not weakened, in his position. The area of his effective selling efficiency is widened; his local mail-order book business becomes an important department, instead of an odd-moment adjunct.

THE whole question of second-class matter was shelved at the last moment by providing solely for another commission to investigate and report. Surely there have been enough commissions, including the Hughes Commission, on this subject, and the present Congress, at its next session, or the coming Congress, cannot evade dealing with the present absurd situation. The sub-classification of second-class matter is as absurd now as can well be. Deliveries by so-called "fast freight" are not prohibited, as the magazine publishers asked; on the other hand, there has been no increase of rate. The suggestion that a two-cent rate should be charged for assuring quick delivery, and a one-cent rate left at the option of the publisher, may be a way out, coupled with a provision which will do away with the present incongruities as between weeklies and monthlies, etc., etc.; and this solution may well receive the thoughtful attention of periodical publishers.

THE PARCELS POST LAW.

THE following is the complete text of the parcels post provisions of the Post Office appropriation act:

Sec. 8. That hereafter fourth-class mail matter shall embrace all other matter, including farm and factory products, not now embraced by law in either the first, second, or third class, not exceeding eleven pounds in weight, nor greater in size than seventy-two inches in length and girth combined, nor in form or kind likely to injure the person of any postal employee or damage the mail equipment or other mail matter and not of a character perishable within a period reasonably required for transportation and delivery.

That for the purposes of this section, the United States and its several Territories and possessions, excepting the Philippine Islands, shall be divided into units of area thirty minutes square, identical with a quarter of the area formed by the intersecting parallels of latitude and meridians of longitude, represented on appropriate postal maps or plans, and such units of area shall be the basis of eight postal zones, as follows:

The first zone shall include all territory within such quadrangle, in conjunction with every contiguous quadrangle, representing an area having a mean radial distance of approximately fifty miles from the center of any given unit of area.

The second zone shall include all units of area outside the first zone lying in whole or in part within a radius of approximately one hundred and fifty miles from the center of a given unit of area.

The third zone shall include all units of area outside the second zone lying in whole or in part within a radius of approximately three hundred miles from the center of a given unit of area.

The fourth zone shall include all units of area outside the third zone lying in whole or in part within a radius of approximately six hundred miles from the center of a given unit of area.

The fifth zone shall include all units of area outside the fourth zone lying in whole or in part within a radius of approximately one thousand miles from the center of a given unit of area.

The sixth zone shall include all units of area outside the fifth zone lying in whole or in part within a radius of approximately one thousand four hundred miles from the center of a given unit of area.

The seventh zone shall include all units of area outside the sixth zone lying in whole or in part within a radius of approximately one thousand eight hundred miles from the center of a given unit of area.

The eighth zone shall include all units of area outside the seventh zone.

That the rate of postage on fourth-class matter weighing not more than four ounces shall be one cent for each ounce or fraction of an ounce; and on such matter in excess of four ounces in weight the rate shall be by the pound, as hereinafter provided, the postage in all cases to be prepaid by distinctive postage stamps affixed.

That except as provided in the next preceding paragraph postage on matter of the fourth class shall be prepaid at the following rates:

On all matter mailed at the post office from which a rural route starts, for delivery on such route, or mailed at any point on such route for delivery at any other point thereon, or at the office from which the route starts, or on any rural route starting therefrom, and on all matter mailed at a city carrier office, or at any point within its delivery limits, for delivery by carriers from that office, or at any office for local delivery, five cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and one cent for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the first zone, except as provided in the next preceding paragraph, five cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and three cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the second zone, six cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and four cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the third zone, seven cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and five cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the fourth zone, eight cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and six cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the fifth zone, nine cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and seven cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the sixth zone, ten cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and nine cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the seventh zone, eleven cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and ten cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

For delivery within the eighth zone and between the Philippine Islands and any portion of the United States, including the District of Columbia and the several Territories and possessions, twelve cents for the first pound or fraction of a pound and twelve cents for each additional pound or fraction of a pound.

That the Postmaster-General shall provide such special equipment, maps, stamps, directories, and printed instructions as may be necessary for the administration of this section; and for the purposes of this section, and to supplement existing appropriations, including the hiring of teams and drivers, there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars.

The classification of articles mailable, as well as the weight limit, the rates of postage, zone or zones and other conditions of mailability under this act, if the Postmaster-General shall find on experience that they or any of them are such as to prevent the shipment of articles desirable, or to permanently render the cost of the service greater than the receipts of the revenue therefrom, he is hereby authorized, subject to the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission after investigation, to reform from time to time such classification, weight limit, rates, zone or zones or conditions, or either, in order to promote the service to the public or to insure the receipt of revenue from such service adequate to pay the cost thereof.

The Postmaster-General shall make provision by regulation for the indemnification of shippers, for shipment injured or lost, by insurance or otherwise, and, when desired, for the collection on delivery of the postage and price of the article shipped, fixing such charges as may be necessary to pay the cost of such additional services. . . .

That the establishment of zones and postage rates of this section shall go into effect January first, nineteen hundred and thirteen.

That this act shall not in any way affect the postage rate on seeds, cuttings, bulbs, roots, scions, and plants, as fixed by section 482 of the Postal Laws and Regulations.

That for the purpose of a further inquiry into the subject of the general parcel post and all related subjects, a joint committee of six persons (Members of Congress), three of whom shall be appointed by the President of the Senate and three by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, is constituted, with full power to appoint clerks, stenographers, and experts to assist them in this work. That the Postmaster-General and the Interstate Commerce Commission shall furnish such data and otherwise render such assistance to the said committee as may be desired or available. For the purpose of defraying the expenses of this committee the sum of twenty-five thousand dollars is hereby appropriated out of the moneys in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated. The committee shall report fully to Congress at the earliest date possible.

THE quotation alleged to be by Emerson, et al., to the effect that if a man make a better mouse trap than his neighbor the world will make a beaten path to his door though he live in the woods, has been bandied back and forth by the trade papers for a year or more. Here comes Fra Elbertus and claims that "no one will make a path to your door now-a-days, no matter how good your mouse traps are, unless you advertise them widely and extensively and arrange to have a free lunch at the mouse trap factory with automobiles to meet all visitors at the railroad station. Mouse traps should be widely and wisely publicized."

THE COPYRIGHT LAW AS AFFECTED BY THE TOWNSEND ACT.

WE reprint from the official text, as approved by the President, those sections of the Copyright Law affected by the Townsend act, changes being shown in italics:

An act to amend sections five, eleven, and twenty-five of an act entitled "An act to amend and consolidate the acts respecting copyrights," approved March fourth, nineteen hundred and nine.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That sections five, eleven, and twenty-five of the act entitled "An act to amend and consolidate the acts respecting copyrights," approved March fourth, nineteen hundred and nine, be amended to read as follows:

"Sec. 5. That the application for registration shall specify to which of the following classes the work in which copyright is claimed belongs:

"(a) Books, including composite and cyclopedic works, directories, gazetteers, and other compilations;

"(b) Periodicals, including newspapers;

"(c) Lectures, sermons, addresses (prepared for oral delivery);

"(d) Dramatic or dramatico-musical compositions;

"(e) Musical compositions;

"(f) Maps;

"(g) Works of art; models or designs for works of art;

"(h) Reproductions of a work of art;

"(i) Drawings for plastic works of a scientific or technical character;

"(j) Photographs;

"(k) Prints and pictorial illustrations;

"(m) Motion pictures other than photoplays:

"Provided, nevertheless, That the above specifications shall not be held to limit the subject matter of copyright as defined in section four of this act, nor shall any error in classification invalidate or impair the copyright protection secured under this act."

"Sec. 11. That copyright may also be had of the works of an author, of which copies are not reproduced for sale, by the deposit, with claim of copyright, of one complete copy of such work if it be a lecture or similar production or a dramatic, musical, or dramatico-musical composition; of a title and description, with one print taken from each scene or act, if the work be a motion-picture photoplay; of a photographic print if the work be a photograph; of a title and description, with not less than two prints taken from different sections of a complete motion picture, if the work be a motion picture other than a photoplay; or of a photograph or other identifying reproduction thereof, if it be a work of art or a plastic work or drawing. But the privilege of registration of copyright secured hereunder shall not exempt the copyright proprietor from the deposit of copies, under sections twelve and thirteen of this act, where the work is later reproduced in copies for sale."

"Sec. 25. That if any person shall infringe the copyright in any work protected under the copyright laws of the United States, such person shall be liable:

"(a) To an injunction restraining such infringement;

"(b) To pay to the copyright proprietor such damages as the copyright proprietor may have suffered due to the infringement, as well as all the profits which the infringer shall have made from such infringement, and in proving profits the plaintiff shall be required to prove sales only, and the defendant shall be required to prove every element of cost which he claims, or in lieu of actual damages and profits such damages as to the court shall appear to be just, and in assessing such damages the court may, in its discretion, allow the amounts as hereinafter stated, but in case of a newspaper reproduction of a copyrighted photograph such damages shall not exceed the sum of two hundred dollars nor be less than the sum of fifty dollars, and in the case of the infringement of an undramatized or non-dramatic work by means of motion pictures, where the infringer shall show that he was not aware that he was infringing, and that such infringement could not have been reasonably foreseen, such damages shall not exceed the sum of one hundred dollars; and in the case of an infringement of a copyrighted dramatic or dramatico-musical work by a maker of motion pictures and his agencies for distribution thereof to exhibitors, where such infringer shows that he was not aware that he was infringing a copyrighted work, and that such infringements could not reasonably have been foreseen, the entire sum of such damages recoverable by the copyright proprietor from such infringing maker and his agencies for the distribution to exhibitors of such infringing motion picture shall not exceed the sum of five thousand dollars nor be less than two hundred and fifty dollars, and such damages shall in no other case exceed the sum of five thousand dollars nor be less than the sum of two hundred and fifty dollars, and shall not be regarded as a penalty. But the foregoing exceptions shall not deprive the copyright proprietor of any other remedy given him under this law, nor shall the limitation as to the amount of recovery apply to infringements occurring after the actual notice to a defendant, either by service of process in a suit or other written notice served upon him.

"First. In the case of a painting, statue, or sculpture, ten dollars for every infringing copy made or sold by or found in the possession of the infringer or his agents or employees;

"Second. In the case of any work enumerated in section five of this act, except a painting, statue, or sculpture, one dollar for every infringing copy made or sold by or found in the possession of the infringer or his agents or employees;

"Third. In the case of a lecture, sermon, or address, fifty dollars for every infringing delivery;

"Fourth. In the case of a dramatic or dramatico-musical or a choral or orchestral composition, one hundred dollars for the first and fifty dollars for every subsequent infringing performance; in the case of other musical compositions, ten dollars for every infringing performance;

"(c) To deliver up on oath, to be impounded during the pendency of the action, upon such terms and conditions as the court may prescribe, all articles alleged to infringe a copyright;

"(d) To deliver up on oath for destruction all the infringing copies or devices, as well as all plates, molds, matrices or other means for making such infringing copies as the court may order;

"(e) Whenever the owner of a musical copyright has used or permitted the use of the copyrighted work upon the parts of musical instruments serving to reproduce mechanically the musical work, then in case of infringement of such copyright by the unauthorized manufacture, use, or sale of interchangeable parts, such as disks, rolls, bands, or cylinders for use in mechanical music-producing machines adapted to reproduce the copyrighted music, no criminal action shall be brought, but in a civil action an injunction may be granted upon such terms as the court may impose, and the plaintiff shall be entitled to recover in lieu of profits and damages a royalty as provided in section one, subsection (e), of this act; Provided, also, That whenever any person, in the absence of a license agreement, intends to use a copyrighted musical composition upon the parts of instruments serving to reproduce mechanically the musical work, relying upon the compulsory license provision of this act, he shall serve notice of such intention, by registered mail, upon the copyright proprietor at his last address disclosed by the records of the copyright office, sending to the copyright office a duplicate of such notice; and in case of his failure so to do the court may, in its discretion, in addition to sums hereinabove mentioned, award the complainant a further sum, not to exceed three times the amount provided by section one, subsection (e), by way of damages, and not as a penalty, and also a temporary injunction until the full award is paid.

"Rules and regulations for practice and procedure under this section shall be prescribed by the Supreme Court of the United States."

Approved, August 24, 1912.

BRET HARTE'S CARELESSNESS.

EVERY now and then magazine editors come across an attempted "literary steal," but according to a yarn in the New York Sun the other day, a Munsey editor had a few unique touches put upon such an experience. He had gone about reading a submitted story, written out in long hand, and had not got far before he began to recognize Cherokee Sal, Stumpy, Oakhurst and other familiar friends from Bret Harte's "Luck of Roaring Camp."

He called the whole staff, and they decided that the best way to treat the contributor who had asked for a "speedy decision" was sarcastically. So the editor wrote:

MY DEAR SIR: We should be very glad to use this splendid story, but unfortunately Bret Harte had it copyrighted when he first wrote it, and his publishers, Houghton Mifflin Co., who now own the copyright, would object, we fear, to your receiving money for it.

Not long afterward the man from Memphis wrote in reply:

DEAR MR. EDITOR: I have looked that matter up and I find that the story was first wrote in 1886 and the copyright has run out and you have a perfect right to pay me for it, and I hope to receive check by return mail.

This made the editor a little hot under the collar, but he resolved to be patient and go further with the sarcasm. So he wrote:

MY DEAR SIR: We are very glad to hear that the copyright on "The Luck of Roaring Camp" has expired. How very careless of Bret! However, I regret that it seems still imposible to pay you for this story, because I now recall that, when Bret Harte lay on his death bed, he made me promise that I would never, never buy and print a story of his that had been previously bought and paid for elsewhere. I am very, very sorry.

This is how the sarcasm fell—shown in the reply written on a postcard from Memphis:

You ought to be sorry. For making such a promise you are a damn fool.

THE MAKING OF A MAILING LIST.

Globe-Wernicke Doings for August contains an interesting story of how C. J. Nachtigal, of the Everybody's Book Shop Company, Dayton, Ohio, succeeded in adding almost all the names of the eighth grade scholars in the city of Dayton to his mailing list, through purchases which they had actually made at his store.

It seems that the girls in one of the departments of the Dayton schools are required to prepare from recipes written on a 3 x 5 card the various dishes which they cook, and that in the course of a term each girl has a hundred or more of these cards. The boys of the Manual Training Department got to work and supplied each girl with a card index file, which they made themselves, taking a Globe-Wernicke Junior file as a model.

After the card files were turned over to the girls, they were required to purchase sufficient cards and guides for the cabinet, and here, says the story, is where the Everybody's Book Shop was benefited, not only by the sales, but the rather unusual publicity created by the trade of several hundred children who naturally aroused public curiosity by their unusual purchases.

SWEATED WRITERS.

THE "BOOKMAN'S" CHRONICLE AND COMMENT CALLS ATTENTION TO SWEATSHOP METHODS OF LITERARY PRODUCTION.

Now that American authors are solidifying into a guild or league or phalanstery or whatever the thing may be called, it seems proper to ask if some sort of special labor organization cannot be found for those pen-workers of a lower grade who are actually sweated. We refer to the hackwriters, especially to the reference-book hacks, a class about whom little is known in this country, and in whom no public philanthropic body has ever shown any interest. The authors who took that momentous step in May toward the formation of a serried phalanx in defence of a prompt and living wage, comprised chiefly the rich and powerful. They have our good will, but not our pity. It is impossible to regard Winston Churchill, Jack London, George Barr McCutcheon, George Ade, Augustus Thomas, Kate Douglas Wiggin or any others on that illustrious roll as among those whose faces society with its iron heel is grinding. On the other hand, a proposal for a hackwriters' union or lexicographers' Holy League, or even for a hackwriters' Vehmgericht or Black Hand confraternity, would have appealed very strongly to our emotions. Nobody who knows how encyclopedias are made or dictionaries happen, no one who has ever seen a Compendium of the World's Best Literature exude, could blame the hackwriter for any sort of reprisal. An uprising of hackwriters, however bloody, would seem, after all, only natural.

Society's occasional sympathy with the under dog has never been extended to the hackwriter. There are types of him in our large cities that would be exceedingly pathetic did we not, all of us, regulate our feelings with great precision, and blame the under dog for being under. And what would you have? We should find other people's sufferings altogether disagreeable, if we could not blame the sufferers themselves. And when a hackwriter is in all other respects blameless, there is one blot on his character that always can be found. He has no economic sense whatever. He will not study how to meet demand. He waits for demand to come his way. He is content with only occasional tangency to a public need. He is, therefore, never to be found comfortably and permanently on the inside of it, safely hedged like a concentric circle, or like some thrifty and romantic novelist, whose thoughts are sweetly bounded by the public appetite. In these commercial days, it looks like carelessness. He is in and out and off and on. What becomes of him in those long intervals when he is not wanted, no man can surely tell. Some say he dries up, like a rotifer, only to come to life again when a new reference work is in the wind. Publishers believe that throughout these unemployed periods he lives in a cocoon. However that may be, he reappears after each interval, a little thinner, indeed, and more leathery, but eager and fecund as before. And the brilliant bargains that can be made with him!—better and better as the intervals increase; for, like the banana, he cheapens as he grows more wizened, and yet he may be none the worse inside. Now, the chief element in these bargains is that the scholarly hackwriter—and that is the type most successfully sweated—actually loves his work. This gives the commercial person a chance to say: Verily, in his work then hath he his reward; and, as in the case of certain country parsons, his salary is drawn mainly from on high, thus leaving the commercial person a comparatively small cash balance to remit. Spiritually subsidized labor may be always had on easy market terms. Besides, the creature's prehensile fingers are fairly quivering for the pen, and so long as you supply its simple need of nutriment it will produce for you.

Nevertheless, society has an interest in these bargains. The hackwriter has more power than is commonly supposed. All the nameless common jobs of compilation in our works of reference are done by him. He has a great many of us at his mercy, and he holds the young mind in the hollow of his hand. From the cradle to the grave, thousands throughout the world are believing what he says. That is the measure of the damage he can do. His faults and his misfortunes are so mixed up that it is easiest to assume that he gets what he deserves. This, however, is often unjust, and the hackwriter knows it. So, once in a while, he retaliates on society with a string of plausible and insidious lies or by intentional stupidities in the works of reference about which he hovers. When you encounter these things it is not safe always to assume that the writer knows no better. It may be that some downtrodden hack has turned at last. The most splendid encyclopædic pretensions cannot protect you against his wrath, when once he realizes his wrongs. There are ample traces of his vengeful hand in the last Encyclopedia Britannica. He has worked on every encyclopædia since Diderot's time, and he will go on working so long as there is a letter in the alphabet. He cannot be killed by heat or cold or pestilence or hunger. The attempt may only nerve him to bide his time and avenge himself by misleading all mankind, which he has come to regard as his enemy. It is a far more dangerous class than that of successful novelists, and society has a deeper interest in its living wage.

SHOWING APPRECIATION IN BUSINESS.

WE have all learned to kick when we receive defective goods and poor service, but we haven't learned to acknowledge and openly recognize goods and service that surpass our expectancy.

A compliment should be as quickly given for good goods and good service as a kick for defective goods and poor service.

The other day the writer sat in the private office of the owner of a very large house-furnishing store when a letter was passed in to the merchant, which he opened and found to contain a check for $1400. It was a big store, and a check for this amount was not an event in his business life, so he turned it over to his bookkeeper in a perfunctory way.

But when he read the letter he beamed and the tears came to his eyes as they would to an overdelighted boy.

It was from a man and his wife who had purchased a bill of furniture a week or two before, and expressed appreciation of both the goods and service, and thanked the proprietor and a particular clerk for their assistance and effort, and wound up by saying that the furniture looked better in the house than it did on the floor of the store.

The proprietor sent this letter out to be framed. It was very clear that he thought more of the letter than he did of the check.

The fact is perfectly clear that the man and his wife who sent this letter can come into this store and get more in goods and service in future orders than a customer who bought an equal amount, sent a check equally as prompt, yet forgot a simple word of compliment that they may have thought, perhaps felt, but failed to express—Cottrell's Magazine.

SIZE UP YOUR OWN STORE.

WHEN you have nothing else on your mind, or time to take a little march across the street, face right about and aim your gaze right at your own store. Size it up—windows, signs, paint, everything—and see if there is not something that can be improved. Try to watch the details of appearance, and have a store that looks like a thriving place of merchandising and not a second-hand junk shop. Give the store a fair chance.

Business may not be so bad, after all. It may be the business place that is out of order. It is a bad habit to get into the way of letting well enough alone. It is never "well enough." Improvement is progress, and progress spells success.—American Stationer.

COPYRIGHT MATTERS.

BRITISH-AUSTRIA-HUNGARY CONVENTION.

IN view of the repeal of the British laws, under which the convention of 1893 was promulgated between Great Britain and Austria-Hungary, by the British copyright act, 1911, a new treaty was signed, June 24, 1912, on the basis of this new law. Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Newfoundland are excepted from the convention.

COPYRIGHT IN LIBERIA.

LIBERIA has passed a copyright act (December 22, 1911) of nine sections, with a term of life and twenty years. Deposit of one copy is to be made at the Department of State, with a declaration that the work is an original composition. The text is printed in full in the Droit d'Auteur for August.

POSTAL MATTERS.

EXTENSION OF FREE DELIVERY SERVICE.

A VERY natural extension of the delivery service of the Post Office Department is provided for in Section 9 of the Post Office Appropriation Act. Free delivery is now given to all first class postoffices on the one side, and all rural routes on the other. In this respect the small town resident has been discriminated against. Free delivery will hereafter be given to all second and third class postoffices "not by law now entitled to free delivery service"—will, in other words, be made universal.

NEWSPAPERS MUST PUBLISH CIRCULATIONS.

To the section of the Post Office Appropriation Bill providing for the publication by periodicals of their editors, owners, bondholders, etc. (reprinted in full in the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for August 17), the conference committee added a clause compelling all daily newspapers to publish their circulations as well. In the sworn statement required by the Post Office Department twice a year, the clause reads: "also, in the case of daily newspapers, there shall be included the average of the number of copies of each issue of such publication sold or distributed to paid subscribers during the preceding six months."

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

THE first collected edition, in English, of the political writings of Rousseau is soon to appear from the Cambridge University Press (G. P. Putnam's Sons).

THEODORE DREISER, who has been so successful in portraying women in his novels, "Sister Carrie" and "Jennie Gerhardt," has chosen a male character for the principal figure in his new novel which will soon be published by Harper & Bros.

"AZALEA," by Mrs. Peattie, is getting a steady tribute of praise from the press. The Reilly & Britton Co. have succeeded in getting an exceptionally good book for girls, full of live, healthy characters that make "Azalea" very happy, even when she abandons rich friends to remain their cherished protégée.

THE Penn Publishing Company have issued in miniature pamphlet form the address of Edward W. Mumford on "Choosing Books for Boys and Girls," which received such enthusiastic commendation at the last booksellers' convention. We imagine that the Penn Publishing Company will be glad to supply copies of this on request.

SHERMAN, FRENCH & Co., of Boston, announce for issue early in October "The Beloved Adventure," by John Hall Wheelock. Mr. Wheelock is the author of "The Human Fantasy," which enjoyed a remarkable sale for verse, and was greeted with honor by distinguished critics here and in England.

DODD, MEAD & Co. have secured "The Epic of Ebenezer," by Florence Tinsley Cox, a novel of a dog who trotted into Hillcrest looking for a master and found Mr. Green, a man who proves the salt of the earth. The story of the Christmas celebration these two get up between them is sweet and wholesome, and the man is scarcely more human and lovable than the dog.

HUMOR and pathos have blended in the workmanship of Frances S. Brewster in "Rhody," in which she makes real how a woman's love dominates her life and endures through hardship and neglect—just kept alive by its own strength. Fine colored illustrations by Florence Scovel Shinn make it attractive at first sight. G. W. Jacobs & Co. publish it on September 14.

THE Panama Canal is uppermost in the mind of the entire world, and nothing could be more timely than Joseph Pennell's wonderful series of lithographs of the world wonder, of which the Lippincotts have prepared a volume of reproductions, preserving all the details of the originals, which cost $400. Mr. Pennell gives twenty-eight illustrations and his own descriptions of them, and has written his experiences and impressions while getting up his great art work.

ACCORDING to despatch to the New York World, all lobbyists and agents for text-book publishing houses in Austin, Tex., on August 30 were invited to leave town by the State Text-Book Board, recently appointed by Gov. Colquitt, to award the contracts for text-books for the public schools for five years. The American Book Company, of New York, which was ousted from the State of Texas on the charge of being a trust, has been recently denied readmission by the Secretary of State.

W. A. WILDE COMPANY, of Boston, are issuing this year a new series of boys' books, called The Boys' Dollar Book Shelf. These books are to be issued at $1 net, contain about 320 pages, with colored frontispiece and three-colored jacket. The various volumes are to be by the best well-known writers for boys, the three volumes issued this year being: "The Boy Scouts of Berkshire," by Walter P. Eaton; "The Young Shipper of the Great Lakes," by Hugh C. Weir; "Young Honesty—Politician," by Bruce Barker.

GEORGE H. DORAN COMPANY have ready today "Jack—One of Us," by Gilbert Franklin, a novel in verse, a masterly parody in the Byronic manner. Every page is original and full of realistic word painting and kindly sentiment; it is a satire redolent with the fun of youth and high spirits. Also ready is "A Health Unto His Majesty," by Justin Huntly McCarthy, a story of the danger faced by a romantic exile of the court of King Charles II., and the fights, spies and adventures of the starved and royal followers, told with the author's masterly skill.

THE publishers of Dr. Maria Montessori's own book, "The Montessori Method," Frederick A. Stokes Co., announce that within a few months they will issue a translation of Dr. Montessori's latest and most extensive book, "Anthropologia Pedagogica," which goes deep into the years of experimentation on which Dr. Montessori has based her new educational methods, and gives to the reader the scientific bases of her theories. The book, which is now being translated by Dr. Frederic Taber Cooper, will be fully illustrated, and provided with numerous diagrams.

ANOTHER of the many ununited, recognized authorities on "Auction Bridge," is Archibald Dunn, an Englishman, who has met with great favor and is now introduced to American experts by the Saalfield Publishing Co. Three new "gripping" books have been added to the Boy Scout Series—"The Boy Scouts In Camp" and "The Boy Scouts on the Trail," by Major Robert Maitland, and "The Boy Scout's Defiance," by Colonel George Durs-ton—all three full of the deeds of adventure of that heroic organization. The old story of "Jack and the Beanstalk" has also been retold, and humorously and artistically illustrated by Katharine Greenland Hamer.

A CERTAIN human quality in the writings of Caroline Abbot Stanley, Clara E. Laughlin and Rupert Hughes has given these authors a wide appeal. Mr. Hughes has continued the story of "Miss 318"—a book as humorous as it was pathetic—in "Miss 318 and Mr. 37"; Miss Laughlin's "The Penny Philanthropist" is in the strain of her "Everybody's Lonesome"; and Mrs. Stanley has equalled "Order No. 11" in "The Master of 'The Oaks.'" Besides these, Fleming H. Revell Company publish to-day "Eastover Parish," the last work of Margaret E. Sangster; "Mis' Bassett's Matrimony Bureau," by Winifred Arnold; and Hugh Black's "Three Dreams," a startling vision of to-morrow, recently published in Everybody's Magazine.

EZRA POUND, whose translation into English verse of "The Sonnets and Ballate" of Guido Cavalcanti—"Alter Oculus Florential"—has just been issued by his publishers, Small, Maynard & Co., was born in Idaho, in 1885, so that for a poet of such achievement he is still a very young man. He came east at the early age of eighteen months. He was educated at Hamilton College and at the University of Pennsylvania, where he was for a time Fellow in Romanics. He has spent most of his time during the past few years in Spain, Italy and England. Strange as it may seem, he was first "discovered" in London, where his two volumes, "Personæ" and "Exultations," were received the year before last "with unbounded enthusiasm by the discriminating lovers of literature."

SOCIOLOGY and public questions are well represented among the newest Macmillan books. "The Kallikak Family," by Henry H. Goddard, tells an impressive story of hereditary degeneracy, based on actual observation; "The New Immigration," by Peter Roberts, gives a careful survey of the possibilities for rural-bred immigrants, suddenly transplanted into American city life; "Social Progress in Contemporary Europe," by Frederic A. Ogg, is an interesting study of social changes in the status and opportunity for the average man in modern Europe; and there is to be a new, revised and enlarged edition of "The Control of Trusts," by John Bates Clark and John Morris Clark. A volume of the poetry of the common people, by W. W. Gibson, is entitled "Fires"; and there is a war story of 1812 by C. S. Wood, entitled "Don't Give Up the Ship."

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN COMPANY announce September 14 as the opening of their autumn publication season. New fiction to be issued on that date includes "Caviare," by Grant Richards, and "The Preliminaries," a collection of three stories, by Cornelia A. P. Comer. The Riverside popular edition of George Eliot's works will come out in twenty-two volumes, and to the autograph edition of poets will be added Keats, Burns and Scott. Biography will be represented in the "Life and Letters of John Rickman." John Rickman was the friend of Charles Lamb, Robert Southey and Coleridge, and collectors of Eliana and lovers of Lamb's writings will find interesting material in this biography. For children are "The Turkey Doll," by Josephine Scribner Gates, and "The Children's Own Longfellow," an attractively illustrated collection of selections from the well-beloved children's poet.

WYNDHAM MARTYN, author of "The Man Outside," etc., has written in "All the World to Nothing," the story of a young New Yorker fighting against great odds. Another entertaining author on Little, Brown & Co.'s list is Hudson Douglas, who has written an adventure story of the Stevensonian type in "The White Blackbird." The author of "Lonesome Land," B. M. Bower, has told in "Good Indian" the story of a courageous half-breed. A seasonable holiday book will be "A Little Book of Christmas," by John Kendrick Bangs. In October, Little, Brown & Co. will bring out new novels by three of their leading authors—Mary E. Waller, who wrote "The Wood-carver of 'Lympus'; E. Phillips Oppenheim and Louis Joseph Vance. Miss Waller's new story, "A Cry in the Wilderness," has New York and Canadian scenery; in Mr. Oppenheim's "The Tempting of Tavernake," a young Englishman learns a few things about women; while Mr. Vance's "The Destroying Angel" is a rapid-fire story of a beautiful woman's love.

MAKING plays from novels and making novels from plays is generally considered unsatisfactory, at best, but Albert Payson Terhune has turned Belasco's successful play, "The Woman," into a novel that is bound to run the play closely in popularity. Those who have enjoyed the adventures of the telephone heroine while guarding the number she knows is worth a fortune, and keeping loyal to the other woman concerned in the plot, will like to see how good a story has been made of the dramatic episodes; and those removed from the theatres, who have heard of the wonderful New York success, will be eager to help it to its place among the Bobbs-Merrill "sellers" in its new, attractive form of fiction. "The Melting of Molly," in which Miss Daviess records the experiences of a plump and merry widow, eager to appear before her lover in blue muslin dress in which she captivated a lover, when only twenty inches round the waist, is also merrily climbing to top place. The publishers also report busy days back of them and before them, with Vaughan Kester's "The Just and the Unjust" keeping abreast of the orders for it, orders first gained by its being by the author of "The Prodigal Judge," and now steadily continuing on its own fully recognized merit.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have recently published a number of books whose application to present-day questions is close. In politics they have just issued William L. Ransom's "Majority Rule and the Judiciary; An Examination of Current Proposals for Constitutional Change Affecting the Relation of the Courts to Legislation," with an introduction written by Theodore Roosevelt, a volume that presents very clearly the Progressive standpoint; and only a few weeks ago they issued Nicholas Murray Butler's "Why Should We Change Our Form of Government?" which directly argues the other side of the question. They have also published the "Democratic Mistake," which, in arguing against many elections at short intervals, examines very carefully questions of suffrage, of direct legislation, and of direct primary. This book was preceded only a few weeks by the publication of "Wisconsin: An Experiment in Democracy," by Frederic C. Howe, which showed the working of advanced and direct legislation in that progressive State; and by a new edition of Ellis Paxson Oberholtzer's "Initiative, Referendum and Recall in America," which gave all the facts, figures and theories on those various schemes as they apply to this country. Arthur Train's new book, "Courts, Criminals and the Camorra," turns on questions of crime now under investigation. The Rosenthal murder made the public feel its intense concern in the administration of the Police Department and the District Attorney's office, and Mr. Train explains in detail the way in which both these establishments carry on their work. The book is divided into three parts, one dealing with courts, another with criminals, and the third with the Italian Camorra. Its various chapter headings are: The Pleasant Fiction of the Presumption of Innocence; Preparing a Criminal Case for Trial; Sensationalism and Jury Trials; Why Do Men Kill? Detectives and Others; Detectives Who Detect; The Camorra in Italy; An American Lawyer at Viterbo; The Mala Vita in America.

PICK-UPS.

DICKENS AS PACEMAKER.

A BOOKSELLER in Cleveland advertised for a porter. A big muscular Irishman walked in and glanced round. Finally his eye rested on a big sign "Dickens's works all this week for $4." The Irishman read it and edged toward the front door. The floorwalker asked if he wanted something, and the applicant remarked: "Oi come in t' git th' job, but Oi'll not care fr it. Dickens kin worruk all th' week fr $4 if he wants to. Oi'll not. Ye'd better kape him." And the visitor strode vigorously out.—Christian Register.

A PARABLE.

FREDERICK W. TAYLOR, of scientific management note, said the other day in Philadelphia: "Two men stood watching a steam shovel at work. With a clatter and a roar the shovel bit into a steep bank, closed on a carload of earth, and dumped it on a waiting freight train.

"It drives me wild," said the first onlooker, 'to see that monster taking the bread out of good men's mouths. Look at it. Why, it's filling up these flat cars faster than a hundred men with picks and shovels could do it.'

"But the other onlooker shook his head and answered:

"See here, mister, if it would be better to employ a hundred men with picks and shovels on this job, wouldn't it be better still, by your way of thinking, to employ a thousand men with forks and tablespoons?"

THE JABBERWOCKY OF AUTHORS.

BY HARRY PERSONS TABER.

'Twas gilbert. The kchesterton
Did locke and bennett in the reed.
All meredith was the nicholson,
And harrison outqueed.

Beware the see-enn-william, son,
The londonjack with call that's wild.
Beware the gertroo datherton
And richardwashburnchild.

He took his brady blade in hand;
Long time the partridge foe he sought.
Then stood a time by the oppenheim
In deep mcnaughton thought.

In warwick deeping thought he stood—
He poised on edithwharton brink;
He cried, "Ohbernardshaw! I could
If basilking would kink."

Rexbeach! rexbeach!—and each on each
O. Henry's mantles ferber fell.
It was the same'sif henryjames
Had wally eaton well.

"And hast thou writ the greatest book?
Come to thy birmingham, my boy!
Oh, beresford way! Oh, holman day!"
He kiplinged in his joy.

'Twas gilbert. The kchesterton
Did locke and bennett in the reed.
All meredith was the nicholson,

SECRETS OF THE CRAFT

I.

SIDE remarks by Distinguished Author while composing the Novel of the Decade:

(a) "For heaven's sake, Mary! Can't you stop that child crying without singing at the top of your voice? How is a man to get anywhere with all that noise going on?"

(b) "Yes, yes, yes; take the paste, take the shears, take the paper, take the ink, take the stamps, take anything, but let me work in peace!"

(c) "Oh, if you say so, I suppose we must pay that fool call, but I do wish you'd remember that every minute taken out of my working day cuts down our income by just so much!"

II.

From the Dedication Page of the completed Novel of the Decade:

To

MY WIFE, MARY,

without whose gentle inspiration, true companionship and constant helpfulness, these pages would never have been written,

I gratefully inscribe this book.

Dudeney, Mrs. H: Ernest. Maid's money. N. Y., Duffield. 311 p. D. $1.25 n.

By author of "A large room," etc. Two self-supporting women find themselves suddenly well-to-do at forty, when life has lost its savor, its romance, its possibilities. Under the terms of the will, the one who marries first is to forfeit her share of the money to the other, and both must reside together during ten months of each year in a gloomy, lonely country house in Cornwall. One of the two victims has retained through all her misery and slavery a spark of temperament, a faint hope, even, of the happiness that life has withheld so long. She comes to hate her yoke-fellow, who has grown smug, subservient and "genteel" in the rich houses where she has earned her bread. Then come the two men who precipitate the tragedy that ends the book.

Stokes, Katharine. The motor maids by rose, shamrock and thistle; with il. by C: L. Wrenn. N. Y., Hurst. c. 302 p. 12°, 50 c.

Tait, G. W. Gold mine accounts and costing; a practical manual for officials, accountants, bookkeepers, etc. N. Y., Pitman. 85 p. 8°, $2.

Terhune, Alb. Payson. The woman; a novel founded on W: C. de Mille's play of the same name; il. by W. B. King. Indianapolis, Bobbs-Merrill. c. 341 p. D. $1.25 n.

The secrets that inevitably come to the ears of a telephone operator furnish the key to this story based on the successful play. Grace Robertson, the woman in the case, will lose happiness and honor if a certain telephone number becomes known to her enemies. This number is known to Wanda Kelly, telephone operator for the Hotel Keswick. She knows this information is worth a fortune, but she tries to be loyal to the other woman. How hard she tries, how desperately she fights, and how she is rewarded make an interesting story.

Thurston, Ernest Temple. The antagonists. N. Y., Appleton. c. 320 p. il. D. $1.30 n.

Pictures an English household with a loving mother, wise and of deep understanding for her children, and, by contrast, a father harsh and unsympathetic, who demands reverence by threats of punishment if his orders are not obeyed. Dickie, the boy hero, is a lovable character. His love story, the scornful opposition of his father, how he takes matters into his own hands, learns love's great secret, and bolts from his narrow home life to be an artist in London make the story.

Turner, E. J. Our home lands; a regional study of the geography of the British. bk. 4. N. Y., Pitman. 256 p. 12°, (Far and near geographical ser.) 60 c.

Van der Zee, Jacob. The Hollanders of Iowa. Iowa City, Ia., State Hist. Soc. of Ia. 453 p. por. O. $3 n.

Author was born in the Netherlands, reared in Ohio, and was then Rhodes scholar at Oxford. Gives a study of immigration and colonization, a story of the stubborn and unyielding fight of men and women who overcame the obstacles of a new country and handed down to their descendants thriving farms and homes of peace and plenty.

Vernède, R. E. The flight of Faviel; with front. by G: Varian. N. Y., Holt. c. 6+318 p. D. $1.20 n.

The author wrote "The pursuit of Mr. Flaviel," which make its mark in England. He has almost wholly changed it to please American criticism, and under its new name again tells how the hero bet he could disappear for a month and elude the search of the most acute detectives. A love story is interwoven, and the hero's adventures and his rival's plottings are told with humor.

Victor, Ralph. The boy scouts air craft; il. by Rudolf Mencl. N. Y., A. L. Chatterton. c. 2+9-194 p. pls. 12°, 50 c.

Wade, Mrs. Mary Hazelton Blanchard. The wonder-workers. Bost., Little, Brown. c. 14+196 p. pors. D. $1 n.

Biographies for young people of Luther Burbank, the flower magician; Helen Keller, the magician of touch; William George, the magician of sympathy; Thomas A. Edison, the magician of sound; Jane Addams, the magician of friendship; Dr. Grenfell, the magician of love; and Judge Lindsay, the magician of faith.

Whitman, Roger Bradbury. Gas-engine principles; with explanations of the operation, parts, installation, handling, care and maintenance of the small stationary and marine engine, and chapters on the effect, location, remedy and prevention of engine troubles. N. Y., Appleton. c. 15+248 p. il. D. $1.50 n.

Woman's Club of Mercersburg, Pa. Old Mercersburg, by the Woman's Club of Mercersburg, Pa. N. Y., F. Allaben. 215 p. il. pls. pors. map, facsim. 4°, $3.50.

Woodrow, Nancy Mann Waddel, [Mrs. Wilson Woodrow.] The Black Pearl. N. Y., Appleton. c. 324 p. pls. D. $1.30 n.

The Arizona desert and the Rocky Mountains have sheltered "the Black Pearl," a dancer, till her reputation reaches a theatrical manager, who pursues her relentlessly. She flees to her father's mines in the mountains. An English inspector becomes her protector. Wild characters of wild places take part in shaping her destiny.

The Publishers' Weekly

Subscription Rates

One year, postage prepaid in the United States, $4.00; foreign, $5.00.

Single copies, 10 cents. Educational Number, in leatherette, 50 cents; Christmas Bookshelf, 25 cents.

Advertising Rates

One page.....	$25 00
Half page.....	14 00
Quarter page.....	7 00
Eighth page.....	4 00
One-sixteenth page.....	2 00

The above rates are for unspecified positions. Special rates for preferred position (full pages only).

Higher rates are charged for the Summer Reading, Educational Number and Christmas Bookshelf, and for the monthly Book Review supplement sections.

Advertising copy should reach us Tuesday noon—earlier, if proof is desired out-of-town. Forms close Thursday noon.

Under the heading "BOOKS WANTED" booktrade subscribers, under their own names, are given five nonpareil lines (exclusive of address) free advertisement for specific books out of print in any issue except special numbers, but not exceeding 100 lines a year. If over five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line. Books not out of print, unspecified wants, repeated matter, and all advertisements from nonsubscribers cost 10 cents a line. Objectionable books are excluded so far as they are noted.

In answering, please state edition, condition and price, including postage or express charges. Houses that will deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis should put [Cash] after their firm name. The appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the WEEKLY, does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it endeavors to safeguard its columns by withholding the privilege of advertising should occasion arise, booksellers should take usual precautions in extending credit.

"Books Wanted" must be designated by actual title, not by "any."

Write your wants plainly, on one side of the sheet only. Illegible "wants" are ignored. The WEEKLY is not responsible for errors. Parties with whom there is no account must pay in advance.

Under "BOOKS FOR SALE" or for other small undisplayed advertisements, the charge is 10 cents a nonpareil line. No reduction for repeated matter. Count seven words to the line.

Reference List of New Publications

Recorded in AUGUST, 1912

This Reference List enters the books recorded during the month under (1) author, in Clarendon type, anonymous books having Clarendon type for the first word; (2) title in Roman; (3) subject-heading in SMALL CAPS; (4) name of series in Italics.

A colon after initial designates the most usual given name, as: A: Augustus; B: Benjamin; C: Charles; D: David; E: Edward; F: Frederick; G: George; H: Henry; I: Isaac; J: John; L: Louis; N: Nicholas; P: Peter; R: Richard; S: Samuel; T: Thomas; W: William.

For books received sizes are given in CAPS, books not received sizes are given in Roman numerals, 4°, 8°, etc. Prices are added except when not supplied by publisher or obtainable only on specific request. Where not specified the binding is cloth.

Those desiring to learn the entire publishing output of the month in any one field should look under one of the following MAIN HEADINGS:

PHILOSOPHY	MEDICINE	LITERATURE
RELIGION AND THEOLOGY	AGRICULTURE	POETRY
SOCIOLOGY	HOUSEHOLD ECONOMICS	DRAMA
LAW	BUSINESS	FICTION
EDUCATION	ENGINEERING, TECHNOLOGY	BIOGRAPHY
PHILOLOGY	FINE ARTS	GEOGRAPHY AND TRAVEL
SCIENCE	GAMES, SPORTS, AMUSEMENTS	HISTORY

Besides the titles listed under each of these headings cross reference is made from each to a limited number of cognate headings which collectively give all the new publications of the month in the given subject or group of subjects.

Inquirers looking for books on a specific topic should look hereafter under the general subject to which that topic belongs, i.e., GEOLOGY rather than SILURIAN PERIOD; MATHEMATICS rather than CALCULUS; ECONOMICS rather than WAGES. Books regarding specific Religious denominations, countries and persons, however, should still be sought for under their individual names.

PRICE $2.50 Note Ready PRICE $2.50

NOTE: Owing to the very considerable increase in the cost of manufacturing in the past ten years, and the special machinery and labor now required in the binding of so large a book, we are obliged to increase the price from $2.00 to $2.50.

 In ordering give plain directions as to shipment, as each copy weighs twenty pounds and the cost of transportation is extra.

The World's Greatest Living Master of Etching and Lithography

Mr. JOSEPH PENNELL

has made a wonderful series of lithographs of the Panama Canal. A set of the originals costs about

$400.00

Joseph Pennell's Pictures of the Panama Canal

is the title of the volume in which they are given in reproduction, preserving all the detail of the originals. 28 illustrations with Mr. Pennell's introduction giving his experiences and impressions and full description of each picture. Volume 7¼ inches by 10 inches. Beautifully printed on dull-finished paper. Lithograph by Mr. Pennell on cover.

Price, $1.25 net

Col. Geo. W. Goethals wrote to Mr. Pennell

"I cannot express in words the pleasure that these pictures give me, as they illustrate so clearly, forcibly and vividly the work, and portray actual conditions with a force which I did not think could be developed in a picture."

The Pennells' authorized life of Whistler in two volumes is out of print and sets of same are now at a premium, but copies of the later one volume edition (in which was incorporated new matter and additional illustrations) can still be obtained.
Price, $3.50 net.
